Detroit Negro Riots Leave 'Wasteland'

William Lee Sponsel, 6, Is Victim

Rogers Area Boy Drowns While Fishing Near Home

ROGERS — William Lee Sponsel, 6, son of William H. and Alice Jean Sponsel of the Rogers - Negley Rd., Route 154, drowned about 6:30 p.m. Saturday in shallow Bull Creek near his home.

He presumably fell into the run while fishing near the Youngstown & Southern Railway bridge within sight of his home. Dr. William Kolozsi of Salem, Columbiana County coroner, ruled accidental death by drowning — the third in the county this year. Marcellus Saunders, 39, and Lavette Shipp, 14, both of Canton, drowned June 11 in Sandy Creek at Bayard when the man tried to save the boy who stepped off a ledge while wading.

Rites Set Tuesday.

The Gorbys told her they had been on the railroad bridge and saw the doll floating face down. "As soon as they said it had black tennis shoes, I knew it wasn't any baby doll," Mrs. Sponsel said.

Artie Sponsel, 12, ran to the creek and yelled back, "It's Billie Lee!" Leonard Shafer, an employee of Sponsel's garage and used car lot, carried the boy from the bridge to the house. He told the parents the body was in 18 inches of water. The family could not find the fishing pole. Mrs. Sponsel said someone said Billie Lee had been back at the house looking for Artie after he went fishing the first time. Dr. Anthony J. Rich of East Palestine pronounced the boy dead at home. The body was taken to the Van Dyke Funeral Home in East Palestine.

"I DON'T know what happened," Mrs. Sponsel said. "He wasn't swimming, he had all" (Turn to DROWNING, Page 12)

SHERIFF'S Deputy Sid Boydston said the Sponsel boy was seen crossing the road to the creek about 5:30 p.m. The family said he fished every day. Mrs. Sponsel said Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gorbey and children of Negley RD 1 pulled up at the roadside about 6:30 p.m. to ask

Found Dead On Porch Sunday

Weirton Woman Is Slain; West Virginia Man Held

WEIRTON — A Tyler County, W. Va. truck driver has been charged with the murder of a Weirton woman here after she was found dead on the front porch of her home at 1:38 a.m. Sunday. Five bullets had riddled her body.

Kenneth James Butler Sr., 48, of Sistersville was taken into custody shortly after 3:30 Sunday morning by Police Chief Edward Frankovitch and officers in five cruisers from Hancock and Brooke counties that surrounded his car on Weirton Heights.

He is charged in the fatal shooting of Mrs. Donald (Linda Kay) Peck, 21, of 536 Cove Rd.

BUTLER WAS ordered held without bond in the Hancock County jail at New Cumberland after arraignment Sunday morning before Weirton Municipal Judge Martin S. Bogard.

The preliminary hearing scheduled for this morning was continued until July 31 at the request of Butler's attorney, Leonard Alpert of Weirton.

Butler's oldest boy and a younger son who were riding with him at the time of his arrest was taken into custody, but later released. Kenneth James Butler Jr., 21, of 347 Pennsylvania Ave., Weirton, was named as a material witness.

Weirton police said no motive for the shooting has yet been established.

Mrs. Peck was found on her front porch by two neighbors. Mr. and Mrs. Donald Coburn, who notified police.

Frankovitch declined to comment on certain aspects of the case, citing limitations imposed by recent Supreme Court rulings.

John D. Herron, Hancock coroner, said an autopsy was performed yesterday morning by a pathologist at Weirton General Hospital.

HE NOTED three bullets were found in her body.

"The victim had received two head wounds and three body wounds," he declared. "Two of the bullets penetrated through her body and were found on the porch, and any one of them could have been the cause of death," he added.

A .32-caliber semi-automatic pistol is believed to be the murder weapon.

The victim's husband was notified of her death while he was working the night shift at the Weirton Steel Co.

Her two children and a brother, James Brown, 20, were asleep in the house at the time of the incident.

Butler was apprehended in his 1962 convertible near a fruit market on Route 22.

Frankovitch, who is conducting the investigation along with Weirton detectives, reportedly saw the suspect's car headed east on Cove Rd. passing the Peck home shortly after a description of the vehicle was given him by "persons familiar with the vehicle."

Butler offered no resistance when five cruisers surrounded his car at the top of the Weirton Heights Hill.

War Priority Urged

Ike's Suggestions May Give GOP Election Issue

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower and Republican leaders could produce a fresh GOP assault on President Johnson's Vietnam war policies.

Eisenhower's suggestion that Congress consider declaring war on North Vietnam got a cold reception from party leaders late last week.

But his contention that the war must have priority over domestic programs seems to have solid support among members of the Republican Policy Coordinating Committee.

The coordinating group, made up of congressional leaders, governors and former presidential candidates, meets today but had no specific Vietnam items on its day-long agenda.

Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen, however, forecast a policy pronouncement on defense spending likely to emphasize the threat of a huge deficit if domestic outlays are not reduced.

Sen. Jack Miller, R-Iowa, a member of the Senate Armed Services Committee, said he agrees with Eisenhower that the war should have priority over all other government programs.

"Instead, the Johnson administration has tried to follow a 'guns and butter' fiscal policy which has caused inflation and high interest rates," Miller said. Disagreeing, Sen. John Sparkman, D-Ala., a member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said in a separate interview he thinks the war has had priority. But he added that doesn't mean needed domestic programs should be abandoned. "With a $750 billion national output, I think we can have both guns and butter," he said.

Study Of Households Will Start Wednesday

Mayor George E. Willshaw today reminded residents a house-to-house survey will be made Wednesday and Thursday by the professional planning concern of Carroll V. Hill & Associates to gather information needed in applying for recertification of the municipality's "workable program" that makes it eligible for federal aid.

The study, covering about one in every 25 of the city's homes, will be made by Steven A. Caywood, an employee of the planning firm. He will carry a letter signed by the mayor identifying him and explaining the reason for the study.

Caywood will ask questions about employment, the number in the family, auto ownership, income and related information, the mayor said. Families will not be identified by name and all the information will be held confidential, the mayor said.

Egypt Plans Sacrifices In War Efforts

But Nasser Hints Door's Still Open For Peace Actions

CAIRO (AP) — President Gamal Abdel Nasser's new budget being published today calls for sacrifices to enable war-crippled Egypt to struggle against Israel, but Nasser says the door is still open for a political settlement.

In a broadcast speech Sunday night, Nasser said he had "no objection to conferring with the Americans" on restoring peace to the Middle East and had instructed Egypt's United Nations delegation "to meet with the Americans if feasible."

Nasser's speech, his first in six weeks, was considered surprisingly restrained in tone although there were plentiful references to the United States. The Egyptian leader again blamed it for the Israeli victory in the June 5-10 war but revised his charges.

Nasser dropped his claim during the war that U.S. planes attacked the Arabs. Instead, he said President Johnson engaged in deceptive diplomatic maneuvers which masked the Israeli attack and this enabled the Israelis to get the decisive jump on the Arabs.

Viet Troops Kill 25 Reds In DMZ

SAIGON (AP) — The South Vietnamese army patrolling the southern half of the demilitarized zone killed 25 North Vietnamese regulars Sunday about a mile inside the once-neutral area, a South Vietnamese spokesman said today.

Elsewhere, U.S. 4th Division infantry with massive artillery support wiped out a North Vietnamese company in the central highlands near Pleiku, killing 124 of an estimated 150 enemy soldiers.

American pilots attacking North Vietnam struck north of Hanoi at the vital rail links with Red China. They reported no meetings with enemy MIGs and no losses to ground fire.

U.S. Marines and South Vietnamese troops first invaded the demilitarized zone in mid-May for a massive sweep of positions the Communists had in the southern half of the zone. After a running series of battles, the

Toll Mounts In Turkey's Quake Areas

Rescue Crews Hunt Victims; No U.S. Casualties Listed

ADAPAZARI, Turkey (AP) — Turkish officials say 86 bodies have been recovered so far from the earthquake that rocked western and central Turkey Saturday. At least 110 were injured, half of them critically and officials said the death toll could run into the hundreds.

Workers dug through rubble in Adapazari and 456 other villages and towns, seeking persons in the ruins. The U.S. Consulate in Istanbul checked American personnel and reported none killed or injured.

President Cevdet Sunay and Premier Suleyman Demirel, who will meet Pope Paul VI in Istanbul Tuesday, drove from Ankara to Adapazari, a city of 110,000.

5 Die In Wild Looting, Arson

DETROIT (AP) — The death toll mounted to five and the number of injured climbed near 1,000 today as Gov. George Romney called for federal troops to help quash two days of wild Negro rioting.

Property damage soared over a $100 million.

Fires set Sunday raged unchecked in many sections as rioting coursed crazily through an ill-defined area covering more than one-sixth of this city, the nation's fifth largest.

There was no immediate response from federal officials to Romney's plea for at least 5,000 troops.

The request came as the rioting claimed its first Negro life — a looter shot down in a supermarket by a Negro guard.

Romney asked for at least 5,000 men.

"Many of the men we now have in the city have been working well past their normal tours of duty and the forces at their disposal will not be able to contain the situation," Romney told newsmen.

Romney said experience has shown that the second night of racial rioting is "usually worse than the first."

"Without help" he added, "the situation could become uncontrollable."

Overtaxed firemen, forced by lack of manpower and the danger of snipers, were forced to let many fires go unchecked. Whole blocks in widely separated sections of the West and Northwest Side burned on into the day.

The tunnel and bridge to Canada, however, which lies across the Detroit River from the city, were closed to traffic.

Mayor Cavanagh ordered all bars, liquor stores, movie theaters and other places of entertainment closed. He also closed service stations, apparently to cut off a source of fuel for firebombs.

The three dead included a 23-year-old white woman shot by a sniper as she rode in an auto, a white man shot down by a merchant as he emerged from a store carrying loot, and a sniper killed by a guardsman.

Police theorized that early orders not to return fire or to restrain looters, but merely to make a show of force, kept the toll of dead and injured down. Despite the massive array of police and Guard power, looters and burners continued their rampage unchecked, but there was little overt hostility on the part of most rioters in the early hours except at the heart of the trouble on the near West Side.

It was in the 12th Street area on the near West Side about three miles from downtown Detroit that the riot apparently started early Sunday with a police raid on a Negro after-hours drinking spot.

Officers arrested 73 persons and about 200 Negroes began pelting police with missiles. Police later released 61 of those arrested. Negroes at the scene said violence started because police kicked a handcuffed teenager down a stairway. Cavanagh said an investigation disproved this.

The original disturbance, which included some looting and the burning of one store, popped up again three hours later.

New York Area Hit By Violence

NEW YORK (AP) — Puerto Ricans spilling from crowded tenements spread violence through Spanish Harlem again early today, bottle-bombing police from streets and rooftops and looting stores from the edges of high-rent white neighborhoods to Negro Harlem.

More than 1,000 helmeted officers struggled for a second night to return calm to the Spanish-speaking area, cajoling crowds and moving them with their nightsticks at first, while avoiding arrests.

Then officers fired a volley of about 15 shots at a suspected sniper stop a building, and cleared street corners with their nightsticks flailing.

A police official reported that the block on Third Avenue between 107th and 108th Streets, usually throbbing with Latin music, was "destroyed" and that "the only thing we can do is stop the looting."

Three policemen and one fireman were injured.

The disturbance did not cross into the smart, virtually all-white upper East Side or central Harlem with its enormous Negro population, the scene of racial rioting in 1964.

After six hours of incidents, the glass-littered streets were nearly deserted and the major part of the extra force was withdrawn. Police still cruised streets and men were stationed at many intersections. They reported only four arrests.

The renewed violence in El Barrio, Spanish for "the neighborhood" came late Sunday night as Puerto Rican leaders discussed with Police Commissioner Howard R. Leary a similar five-hour outbreak Saturday. Mayor John V. Lindsay had worked out a short-lived truce with community spokesmen after the first night's trouble.

Black Society Urged

'Black Power' Takes On New Anti-U.S. Emotions

NEWARK, N.J. (AP) — Black Power, for one year an unclear rallying cry shouted at civil rights rallies and scrawled on walls during riots, has taken on meaning distinctly opposed to present American society.

The first national conference on the once cloudy concept produced a string of resolutions Sunday that would, in effect, set up a black-oriented society distinctly antiwhite, anti-Christian and anti-race in tone.

With almost every faction of the Negro community represented at the start of the four-day meeting, it was clear at the final session Sunday that the militant separatists had won.

One enthusiastically supported resolution called for "starting a national dialogue on the desirability of partitioning the United States into two separate nations, one white and one black."

for black-oriented financial, educational, employment and law enforcement institutions, including paramilitary training for black youth.

Some termed it the start of "the black revolution."

A deep distrust of white society was evident as the delegates cheered through proposals to set up permanent contacts with African nations, independent, black-controlled political parties or voting blocs, and gear the products of Negro artists and professionals more closely to "the needs of black people."

Funeral Services Held For Carl Sandburg, 89

FLAT ROCK, N.C. (AP) — poet, biographer and author Carl Sandburg, who rose through the ranks of workingmen to achieve a delicate and humane touch in the literary world, is dead at age 89, but remembered for a wide assortment of successes.

His cremation will follow a funeral service today at St. John's in the Wilderness Episcopal Church, near Connemara, where the goat farm where the old and struggled hard to make a living. Both understood and loved the common people.

The Lincoln biography, a painstaking work of 15 years, won him his first Pulitzer Prize.

Sandburg, a picturesque figure of broad mouth and full head of straight, snow-white hair, won his second Pulitzer Prize in 1951 for his "Complete Poems."

He was born Jan. 6, 1878, in Galesburg, Ill., the son of Swedish emigrants. The blacksmith-railroad worker father was poor, and Carl dropped out of school at 13 to work. He drove a milk wagon, harvested ice, swept out a barber shop, labored in pottery and tin shops.

When the Spanish-American War broke out he enlisted in the Illinois Infantry and served eight months in Puerto Rico.

After the war he attended Galesburg's Lombard College, then pursued all sorts of jobs including an organizer for the Social Democratic party, secretary to Milwaukee's mayor, and newspaperman. The Chicago Daily News hired him as a writer after he had served as foreign correspondent for a feature syndicate.

Then his literary career began shaping.

He collected songs of mountain people, cowboys and railroad gangs. With his guitar he gave poetry reading-folk singing concerts across this country.

The Sandburgs lived for years in Harbert, Mich., but in 1945 left the Lake Michigan winters and moved to Flat Rock, a village of old homes amid towering trees along a plateau on the crest of the Blue Ridge.

Sandburg, on Feb. 12, 1969—the 150th anniversary of Lincoln's birth—addressed a joint session of Congress.

Survivors, in addition to the widow, are three daughters.

Minor Accident Results In 2nd, Hospitalizing 8

A relatively minor freeway accident early Sunday caused a distraction which resulted in a second accident, the latter sending eight to City Hospital.

The Highway Patrol at Lisbon said an auto driven by Dorothy L. Falkner, 28, of MC 20, Densmore Ave., was northbound on the Route 30 freeway just south of its intersection with Route 170 at 6:25 a.m. yesterday when it swerved to miss a "foreign object" in the roadway.

The woman lost control of her car and went off the left side of the road, knocking out 100 feet of guardrail. She was not injured.

Minutes later, Peter Muscarl, 44, of the Y. and O. Rd., came upon the scene of the mishap, slowed to view the wreck and was struck by a station wagon approaching from the rear, the patrol said.

The other car was operated by Edward R. Hersman, 45, of 2 Doylestown, Pa. He was admitted to City Hospital yesterday in "fair" condition with lacerations of the tongue and contusions of the right arm. A daughter, Jeanne Hersman, 9, was admitted in "satisfactory" condition with a possible head injury.

Margaret Hersman, the driver's wife, was treated for contusions and abrasions. Four other children were released after examination or treatment for minor injuries.

Muscarl was released after being treated for back, arm and leg injuries.

Hersman was cited for failure to stop in the assured clear distance.

Hearing Planned In Fraud Charge

Municipal Judge Samuel M. Chertoff today set a hearing July 31 for G. C. Donovan of 2130 Lisbon St., charged with obtaining $2,600 by false pretenses and fraud from George Bourne of 434 Washington St., Newell.

Bourne's affidavit, signed July 3, alleges that in September 1966 Donovan "unlawfully and falsely did pretend, with intent to defraud, that he would contract to construct a certain building but needed money for materials."

The affidavit also alleges that he obtained a total of $2,600 from Bourne at various times, "but did not buy material and did not construct said building."

No plea was taken from the defendant, since he was not represented by counsel. The judge set the appearance bond at $1,000.

Mr. Garren died late Saturday morning at Salem City Hospital from internal injuries received Friday when his compact car left Route 558 near East Fairfield and rolled over an embankment.

A World War II veteran, he was born in Salineville July 16, 1921, a son of Edward Gerren, who resides in Salineville, and the late Mary Gerren. He was a burner at the Nash Machine Manufacturing Co. in East Palestine. He belonged to the Salineville church.

Mr. Garren's death came despite a 24-pint blood transfusion of plasma received by way of the Highway Patrol's emergency blood relay system. One shipment had been received from Cleveland as patrol cruisers ferried the blood from district boundary to boundary and a second was en route, but canceled, when it was learned of the death.

Mr. Garren was Columbiana County's 18th traffic fatality of the year. Dr. William Kolozsi, coroner, indicated an autopsy is planned.

Taming The Wild Ones

Younger Pennsylvania drivers with a tendency to be wild at the wheel have been given a warning that State Police are on the alert to crack down on such nonsense.

Police Commissioner Frank McKetta points to a new report which shows the 17-26 age group constituted 22.5 per cent of the state's driver population but had 46 per cent of traffic violations last year and figured in 31 per cent of fatal accidents.

Terming the group a "menace," McKetta has directed troopers to set up extra patrols near where young people frequent, such as drive-in restaurants and movies, miniature golf courses and neighborhood hangouts.

The idea is basically to make the younger drivers aware of the danger problem of speed and carelessness, not just to lower the boom on them, according to the state official. Parents also should recognize the need to have their sons and daughters cooperate.

Pennsylvania certainly is not alone with this younger driver problem. The middle-aged driver and old driver in Ohio and West Virginia are injuring and killing themselves and others, but not at the same rate, statistically.

Driver education and better engineering of autos and roads can go far in cutting down on highway accidents, but enforcement of the law remains the third big "E" in safety. We hope Pennsylvania's proposal works and sets an example for greater enforcement — and cooperation — everywhere.

Limiting The Right To Strike

The six railroad shop unions that experimented with the strike weapon, only to be disarmed by a federal law that Congress previously had been unwilling to pass, got a message of re-ounding significance.

This is the second time in four years that Congress has disarmed railroad workers threatening to wield the strike weapon. It was the fourth time this year Congress had fretted about the railroad labor problem.

The war in Vietnam had made it a certainty Congress would not tolerate a railroad strike this summer. Persistent demand for a federal law to make all crippling strikes impossible made it a near certainty that a railroad strike would raise congressional hackles.

It is no longer a matter of congressional friendship for organized labor. There is no unanimity among the railroad unions — no more than there is among building trade unions, for instance.

The striking unions in the railroad dispute did not speak for all railroad labor. The International Association of Machinists, bellwether union in the railroad group, had bulldozed other unions in last year's airline strike by holding out for arbitrary demands at the expense of the members of other unions.

This is not peculiar to strategy for tying up transportation. It is a standard pattern in today's unionism — the union faction that goes on the muscle at the expense of other unionized employees who want to work.

The railroad unions now have the message. Whatever may be accomplished by the latest board appointed to mediate in the latest rail dispute — and it won't be much — the federal government will not stand for transportation stoppages.

That is now a public policy. Whether administered by standing formula or ad hoc degrees, the right to strike in an essential industry does not belong to a union or a group of unions.

Government's first responsibility is to the majority, when the majority's welfare and convenience are threatened by a minority.

RAYMOND MOLEY

Romney's Self De-Escalation

Approximately 2,000-3,000 people by their influence or votes will determine the choice of the Republican presidential candidate in 1968.

They are party leaders in the states, GOP members of Congress, governors, national committeemen and women and many people without party or public office who have influence in the party or public opinion.

Many have positive opinions about the qualifications of Gov. George Romney. Others are weighing the pros and cons. Almost all are reticent about expressing a choice at this time.

Three questions predominate in calculations of political professions.

Is the aspirant likely to win enough delegate strength to get the nomination? No politician wants to be caught chasing a lost cause.

If nominated, what sort of campaign can he mount against a tough, experienced warrior like L.B.J.?

A CONSCIENTIOUS minority of politicians asks whether the aspirant is qualified to bear a president's responsibilities. The majority, however, asks that question in a more practical way. Will the aspirant, if elected, recognize loyal party workers in his disposition of jobs and other patronage?

Gov. Romney's refusal to support the choice of his party in 1964 was a major mistake. The practical facts of life should have prevented him from seeking the highest honor a party could bestow from the people who remained loyal.

He could not be elected without the enthusiastic support of some 15 or 20 million voters who are loyal and dedicated Republicans. Without that hard GOP core, he could not win.

There aren't enough independents and unhappy Democrats to elect anyone.

President Eisenhower took that course, and the result was a steady deterioration of Republican strength from 1953 to 1960.

Romney's equivocations about the war in Vietnam bear upon answers to the three questions, too.

For a long time after he was seeking the nomination, Romney refused to take a position. Then in February he said the administration's policy was "clumsy, ill timed and poorly coordinated" and that "it was a mistake to get involved in a land war."

TWO WEEKS later he said, "Sometimes a man knows enough about a situation not to take premature positions." A few sentences later he said he would remain silent "until I know the situation thoroughly."

In April he endorsed President Johnson's position. Withdrawal was "unthinkable." Mr. Johnson welcomed what he believed to be an endorsement, but Romney denied it was one.

Most recently, he came out for a "de-escalation of our bombing of the North" and favored additional forces to provide "a military security for the pacification program."

This record of ambiguity and self-contradiction runs counter to the views of the GOP congressional leadership and once more demonstrates a divergence from his party's positions.

One can imagine how Mr. Johnson in a campaign would attack such a record and how difficult it might be for his Republican supporters to follow the meanderings of such a presidential candidate.

And The Wall Comes Tumbling Down?

The Ups And Downs

By Art Buchwald

WASHINGTON

By good friend Charlie Collingwood mentioned on the tube the other night that during times of prosperity women's skirts get longer, but that during times of economic hardship skirts get shorter.

I wouldn't have given it a second thought, except that I happened to be in New York City the other day and I was walking down Fifth Ave. with my wife.

A girl in a miniskirt was walking toward us and my eyes boggled. Naturally, my wife got angry. "You don't have to stare," she said.

"You wouldn't say that if you knew what I was doing," I said.

"I know very well what you're doing. You're filling your head with evil thoughts." "That's not true," I said. "What I'm really doing is figuring out the stock market. If it's true that skirts go up during periods of recession, we may be in for a very bad time."

ANOTHER GIRL walked by with a skirt three inches above her knees. "Do you know what that tells me?" I asked my wife. "I'd rather not guess," she retorted. "It tells me I should sell my AT&T. But the question is, what should I buy instead?" "I'd suggest a pair of field glasses," she said.

"Now stop acting that way. If Charlie's theory is right, we stand to gain or lose a lot of money, and I should think you'd be as concerned as I am."

"Why don't you read the Wall Street Journal or subscribe to a financial newsletter like everybody else?"

"Because this method is foolproof. Look at that girl over there with her skirt almost up to her thighs. That could mean either of two things—tax-free bonds are going to be in demand or the bottom is going to fall out of mutual funds."

"The bottom is going to fall out of something else if she tries to hail a cab," my wife said.

"You're letting your mind wander," I remonstrated. "These girls are trying to tell us something, if only we had the key."

TWO LADIES in miniskirts were looking into the Bergdorf Goodman window.

"Now what does that tell you?" my wife said angrily.

"Maybe I should sell short. They say the Dow Jones averages can't go much higher." "I wish the same could be said about the skirts."

"To most men," I explained, "miniskirts mean nothing more than a leg show. But when I see a miniskirt I immediately think of Merrill, Lynch, Pierce, Fenner and Smith."

"What about your other lecherous friends?" "They're not lecherous friends. They're a brokerage house," I explained. "I'll bet they're out on the streets doing the same thing I'm doing right now."

We went by Saks Fifth Ave. and my wife said she wanted to stop in for a moment. She suggested I study the industrials while I waited.

A half-hour later she came out, wearing a miniskirt.

"What are you doing?" I cried. "I've decided to play the market myself. If there's going to be a recession, I might as well be part of it while it lasts."

$29 Billion For Vietnam War

Expenses Double Original Budget Estimates

The Bureau of the Budget promises a revised report on the federal budget by the end of the month.

Total spending on the war in Vietnam during the fiscal year just ended — fiscal 1967 — will double the administration's original estimates.

As the war continues to grow, the budgetary deficit for fiscal 1968, just begun, may run to $29 billion, or more.

The Joint Economic Committee in its mid-year report based on hearings held in April observes: "There are already signs that actual spending on the war in the upcoming fiscal year may again appreciably outrun first estimates."

THE COMMITTEE asserts that "the lack of accurate expenditure data during calendar 1966 handicapped the Congress seriously in reaching appropriate tax, spending, and other economic policy decision . . . Had the Congress known earlier than it did . . . that Vietnam spending in the fiscal year 1967 would outrun estimates by $10 to $12 billion, more serious consideration might have been given to taking the necessary steps to dampen the growing inflationary pressures without falling back on . . . excessive reliance on monetary policy."

Latest official estimate of the 1968 deficit in the familiar administrative budget — the one most usually cited — is $11 billion. This budget excludes the huge income and outgo of the Social Security trust fund and other government trust accounts.

But Rep. Wilbur Mills, D-Ark., chairman of the tax-writing House Ways and Means Committee, has put together a series of possible assumptions that point to a fiscal 1968 deficit that threatens to "burst all bounds." Mills comes up with a $29.2 billion deficit.

Estimating federal revenues and federal spending is difficult in normal times, let alone when a military operation is sucking up treasure at the official rate of $21.9 billion a year. The merest sluggishness in the economy will falsify income estimates, on the down side, just as expansion will mean that these estimates are overreached.

Tax receipts for fiscal 1967 will almost certainly be below official estimates, particularly from taxes on corporate profits. By the same token, escalation of the war means spending will exceed estimates.

ECONOMIC forecasters are first to admit that theirs is a risky occupation. The so-called economic indicators, as one waggish economist has commented, have "predicted nine of the last five recessions."

The $21.9 billion estimate on Vietnam spending comes from the fiscal 1968 budget. New figures in July could bump that $3 billion or more.

The Joint Committee takes credit for getting the Budget Bureau to agree to "a system of regular budgetary reporting." A report is to be issued each July — the upcoming one is the first — and another is to "follow at the close of the congressional session each year."

The committee calls these reports "a most constructive and necessary step."

Tossing about billions of dollars is scary if mesmerizing business. Rep. Robert H. Michel, R-Ill., is responsible for the word that $1 billion represents a stack of $1 bills 212 times the height of the Empire State Building.

If you spent $1 of your billion every minute, year round, for 1,902 years, you would still have $264,000 left over.

How would you like to spend our Vietnam outlay?

Bitter Negroes

By James Marlow

The Fallacy Of Black Power

WASHINGTON

Almost 1,000 Negroes at the Black Power conference in Newark, N.J.—some of them in African-type clothing, earrings and sandals—wound up going beyond the kind of white prejudice which has made them bitter.

They adopted a series of resolutions setting up their own brand of antiwhite prejudice as a way of life. They even approved religious bigotry. Christianity was called a white religion.

And one resolution said: "Every black church and all religious institutions that do not join the black revolution shall be boycotted, ostracized, criticized, publicized and rejected by the black community."

The delegates called for a study of the possibility of splitting the United States into two nations — one white, one black. The basic tone of the conference was separatist.

BUT THERE was a huge fallacy in this, which the delegates didn't face up to.

The conference was held to see if Negroes of varying views could decide what "Black Power" meant and how it could be put into action. The words were first used by Stokely Carmichael in 1966 in Mississippi.

But he wasn't any help to the conference in explaining what he meant by the phrase in the first place. He never has exactly explained it. And while the conference struggled over it he was in England preaching the "Black Power" gospel.

One British newspaper, the London Daily Sketch, called on the government to prosecute or deport him. The paper quoted him as telling an audience in England: "It is time to let the white know we are going to take over. If they don't like it, we will stamp them out—using violence and other means necessary."

Not all Negro organizations — for example, the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People — were officially represented at the conference.

Only a week ago at its national convention the NAACP condemned the Newark riots — although blaming the city administration for not doing enough to meet the "grave social ills of the Negro community" — and called upon all "law-abiding citizens of both races to act promptly and sternly to put down such violence."

The Newark conference adopted a resolution against the Army draft of Negroes for service in Vietnam and one calling for a guaranteed annual income, with a threat of "massive efforts to disrupt the economy" if it is not granted.

THIS IS where the fallacy shows up. If, instead of an interdependent society, the Newark delegates want Negroes to have separate lives, how totally separate do they want them?

They could hardly want it total even though they want to explore the possibility of separate nations.

For instance: One resolution called for selective buying to force job upgrading and a nationwide "buy black" move.

But if whites adopted the same attitude to shut out Negroes — for instance, refusing to employ them — what would the delegates propose as an answer to it? They didn't go into that. They ignored that side of the problem.

Which means they're living in a dream world. The one they are in is an unjust nightmare to many Negroes, but it is the only real world and there the injustices have to be eliminated by the efforts of both sides working together.

Some of the other resolutions called for paramilitary training for Negro youths, a black university with subsidiary colleges in every city, and a refusal to accept birth-control programs on the ground they would be an attempt to exterminate Negroes.

Columbus Pair Killed In Utah Canyon Crash

CEDAR CITY, Utah (AP)—A Columbus, Ohio, couple was killed and two of their children injured Sunday when their car plunged off a highway to the bottom of a canyon near Zion National Park.

Killed were John W. Neuman, 46, and his wife, 37.

Their children, John, 12, was listed in good condition, and Thomas, 10, in critical condition.

Rubber Workers Vote To Accept Pact At Goodrich

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — A three-year contract with the B. F. Goodrich Co. was ratified Sunday by United Rubber Workers in Akron and Woodburn, Ind.

A spokesman for URW Local 5 here said the standing vote was "about 3,000 for and 25 against."

Kenton Cecil, vice president of Local 715 at Woodburn, said the contract was ratified by a solid majority on a standing vote of about 700 members.

The Woodburn local earlier had voted to resume work when a tentative agreement had been drafted, but later decided not to return until a favorable ratification vote was taken. A company spokesman said Sunday that many of the plant's 800 employees would not return to their jobs for several days.

Goodrich employees here already have returned to work. URW locals here and in Waco, Tex., have ratified a similar contract with the General Tire & Rubber Co. The union also has reached a tentative agreement with the Firestone Tire & Rubber Co., but URW locals representing Firestone employees have not held ratification votes.

Meanwhile, talks continue at Cincinnati in an effort to reach a settlement between the URW and the Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co. and Uniroyal, Inc. The two companies employ about 43,000 of the 71,000 URW members.

Uniroyal has been struck since April 21, but the union continued working on a day-to-day basis at Goodyear plants until July 13.

St. Clair Mishap Damages 2 Cars

Two cars were damaged in a collision today at 8:19 a. m. on St. Clair Ave. 50 feet north of McKinnon Ave., police reported.

The mishap involved a 1963 sedan driven by John J. Nolan, 16, of Fisher Ave. and a 1967 sedan operated by Paul A. Davis, 40, of Highland Colony, officers said. There was damage to the left front of the Nolan car and the left rear of the Davis auto.

Davis told police he stopped to pick up a passenger and his car was hit from the rear by Nolan's. Nolan concurred with Davis and added that his car skidded when he applied the brakes.

Complete Pubs Exported By Enterprising English

LONDON (AP) — One of the hottest British export items today is a cool olde English pub. "It's surprising," says Ralph Shafran, "but an awful lot of countries are suddenly wanting English pubs, and we are making them and supplying them. We are shipping them complete with barmaids."

With barmaids?

"Yes. As we are now exporting an image, part of the British way of life, as you might say, we have agreed to furnish the barmaids as well."

He and his brothers-in-law, operators of the pub factory, have 20 experienced girls ready to export.

"It's a good job for the right girl," Shafran observes. "Fares paid, living paid, and about 15 pounds ($42) a week clear."

This month a pub called the John Bull, made and exported by the Shafran group, opened in Cascais, not far from Lisbon. A pair of English barmaids went down to staff it.

The pub makers also are negotiating with an American company to furnish 200 English pubs worth over $5 million.

If the deal goes through, the pubs will be spotted across the United States.

The company's first job was making and shipping the Bull Dog pub at Canada's Expo 67.

"We number all the parts and send them with do-it-yourself instructions for assembling," Shafran explains.

"This has proved so popular that we now not only supply the structure and the furniture but the appropriate decorations. You know—horse brasses, bugles, hunting horns, sporting prints, stuffed fish, swords, suits of armor, even stuffed owls."

The average do-it-yourself pub costs $22,000-$28,000.

CIA Aide Claimed THE PLAINS, Va. (AP) — Desmond Fitzgerald, deputy director of plans for the Central Intelligence Agency, died Sunday. He was 67. In 1961 he was made director of Latin-American operations for the CIA. A year ago, he succeeded Richard Helms who became the CIA's top man.

Are you a cherry picker?

Most certainly you are, if you read all the food store ads, then flit about all over town — chasing weekly "specials" (a cherry here, a cherry there!) — to save a few cents on each item at each stop. But what saves YOU from jitters — and a pair of aching feet?

Now don't panic! There's hope for such as you. And because we're crazy about customers — including Cherry Pickers — we're going to let you in on it. Just get a fix on the nearest Foodland (Billingsley's) and let nothing throw you off your course. So what if that other chain store — 20 blocks away — DOES have an ultra-special on bologna? You might save a couple pennies on a pound — but when you one-stop shop at Billingsley's, you save a hundred times that much . . . and maybe more! Food is, most Foodland shopper save $2 to $5 every week, thanks to our 4000 items priced lower every day and weekly "specials," too!

So now you know. But if you're still determined to Pick Cherries, pick some from us. We make a lot of steady customers that way!

Gunman Gets $80 In Area

An attendant at Highway Oil on Route 68, west of Midland, was robbed of $80 at gunpoint by a customer whose car he had just serviced Saturday night at 11:17.

Randall Adams of Industry RD 1, the attendant, was collecting for a $1 worth of gasoline when the man, driving a 1960 blue Plymouth station wagon, handed him a $5 bill.

Adams remarked he was not sure he had enough $1 bills to make change. The man then nervously brandished a gun and said, "I'll take it all," pointing to the roll of bills being held by Adams.

Another customer had pulled into the station to obtain gas, but was using a public telephone at the time of the robbery.

Adams succeeded in getting the license number and police learned, after checking the registration, the plate had been stolen earlier from a car in the Midland area.

Midland police received a call from Adams and relayed the report to Ohioville Borough Police Chief Bernard Zlatovich.

Midland and East Liverpool police threw up roadblocks in the area.

Sheriffs Reject Ballot Proposal In Pennsylvania

BEAVER FALLS, Pa. (AP)—County officials such as sheriffs, quarter sessions court clerks and prothonotaries should be elected, not appointed, according to the Pennsylvania Sheriff's Association.

The organization, holding its 45th annual meeting in Pittsburgh Saturday, voiced unanimous disapproval of a proposed constitutional amendment that would abolish election of county row officials.

These officials should be elected because of their knowledge of their areas, the association contends.

The association elected Sheriff Dawson Miller of Adams County as its new president; Sheriff Donnell E. Allen Jr. of Warren County, first vice president; Sheriff John W. Hineman Jr. of Beaver County, second vice president; and Sheriff Fred W. Lamperton of Erie County, secretary.

Bone - Breakers

Tests Aimed At Safer Autos

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Scientists and engineers at Franklin Institute are pounding, bending and breaking bones with the aim of making the family car a safer vehicle.

Under a $44,000 contract from the U.S. Department of Transportation, the institute is testing cattle bones and joints—much like engineers have tested steel, concrete and other structural material for years.

The institute said it believes this is one of the first studies to apply structural engineering tests to bones.

"Bone, after all, is a structural material and we think we can help bridge the gap between the medical and engineering sciences and find some numerical values for bone structure," said Dr. Francis W. Cooke, head of the institute's metallurgy laboratory.

The data from the tests will be turned over to the Department of Transportation for studies on how to better guard legs and knees in auto collisions.

"We chose the knee to study," said Cooke, "because it's very complex, it's difficult to repair and failure to repair it properly results in serious impairment of function. There are a lot of jobs a man with a banged up knee can't do."

Besides the engineering studies, pathology studies on the samples will be made by Dr. Donald Negel, chief of orthopedics at Hahnemann Medical School and Hospital.

The bone samples will come from cattle freshly slaughtered at a packing house. They'll be subjected to sharp bends and pulls and impact loads. The scientists will first study bone samples, then joints, and finally joints surrounded by flesh and tissue.

"If we can learn what the reaction to impact loads will be, then we can learn how to predict it and ultimately prevent it," said Melvin Zisfein, associate director of the institute's research laboratories.

Girl Escapes Flaming Auto

A 19-year-old girl leaped out of a car which caught fire on Jackson St. at W. 3rd St. Sunday morning and the vehicle then coasted downgrade and came to a halt against a concrete block building owned by the Parsons Coal Co., police reported.

Jerry Ann Prescott of 212 Jackson St. escaped unhurt in the mishap, which damaged the left front door, transmission and left rear stabilizer of a 33-year-old car owned by Robert Prescott of the same address, officers said.

The young woman reported the car caught fire when she started the engine. As she leaped clear, it coasted to a halt against the coal company's building, she said. The fire was out when Patrolman L. E. Richard arrived to investigate. The mishap was timed at 12:17 a. m.

East Liverpool police investigated four other weekend mishaps, including three that involved hit-skip cars.

An auto failed to stop after damaging a six-foot section of fence Sunday at 1:50 a. m. at the home of Leo Payne of Riverside Park, officers said. Neighbors heard a noise, looked outside and saw the auto had struck the fence and proceeded without stopping.

A parked 1955 two-door sedan owned by Henderson Crum of 1040 St. Clair Ave. was damaged in the left rear in a hit-skip mishap at 4:01 a. m. Sunday. Crum told police he heard a loud noise outside and when he went to investigate he found another vehicle had struck his auto and continued without halting.

Mrs. Cecilia A. Farnsworth, 17, of Hammondsville, told police her 1965 two-door auto was damaged in a hit-skip collision Sunday while parked on Washington St. She said another auto backed into her car, but the other motorist refused to give his name and drove away.

An antique auto was damaged in a mishap Saturday at 5:48 p. m. on the parking lot at the Heritage House Motel on E. 3rd St., officers said.

The 1933 sedan owned by Edward L. Hoffman of Pittsburgh was struck on the left rear fender and bumper by a backing 1967 sedan driven by Paul A. Walsh, 42, of Philadelphia, Pa., officers said. Walsh told officers he was backing from the lot and turned his wheels too sharply, causing the left front of his car to bump Hoffman's auto. The Hoffman car carried an "antique auto" license tag issued in Pennsylvania, police said.

New Date Set In Noise Case

Municipal Judge Samuel M. Chertoff today ordered a continuance until Friday, Aug. 4 in a hearing for Glenn Thorne, operator of Thorne's Valu-King store at 1616 Pennsylvania Ave., on a charge of violating the city's "anti-noise" ordinance.

The continuance resulted directly from a motion by Richard Kennedy of Lisbon, defense counsel, in which he argued that Solicitor Joseph W. Cooper or Asst. Solicitor Richard J. Clark should prosecute the case, not Jackman Vodrey, who represents the seven complainants.

The judge designated the assistant solicitor to sit as co-counsel with Vodrey in the prosecution. Then, since Clark is not familiar with the background of the case, the court set the continuance in the trial.

Thorne entered a not guilty plea when the hearing began at 9:40 a.m. It lasted only a few minutes, however, as Kennedy's motion had the effect of halting the proceedings.

The affidavit was signed by Councilman Frank P. Duffy and six other residents of the Holliday St. - Globe St. area. It alleges that machinery in the rear of the food market "has created an unreasonably loud, disturbing noise of such character, intensity and duration as to be detrimental to the health of the citizens."

Kennedy objected to Vodrey "as counsel for the city of East Liverpool to prosecute this case." He said that "nothing has been shown to the court that he has been appointed a special counsel or assistant solicitor."

"I see nothing in the law that would prevent an attorney acting in concert with the solicitor in prosecution of this case," the judge replied. But he added that he felt it "advisable that the solicitor or the assistant solicitor sit in with Mr. Vodrey." Since the assistant solicitor prosecutes criminal cases, he should be the one to serve, the judge commented.

Vodrey commented that "it would have been helpful if Mr. Kennedy had made the motion before Mr. Clark walked out of the judge's office and disappeared."

It Was Oakley's 'Finest Hour'

COLUMBUS, Ohio — It was legislating at its Barnum and Bailey best.

Into the committee room crammed with teachers, members of the PTA and school administrators strode Oakley C. Collins, the veteran (seven terms) Republican state senator from Ironton.

His blue suit pressed and his black, wavy hair perfectly arranged, the chairman of the Senate Education, Health and Welfare Committee was quite prepared for what he immediately called "undoubtedly one of the most important committee hearings in the history of the Ohio Legislature."

WITH THAT promising opener, Collins launched into the business at hand — telling all Ohioans what a great package in state aid to education his committee was about to present.

"This is going to be a good program, with good actors," he offered.

The television cameras whirled and the audience settled back. Dotted around the room were people hiding behind dark glasses, protecting their eyes from the TV lights.

But before the main feature, the committee had to dispense with several other bills.

The first, to correct a school district problem in Lucas County, was worded so it would affect only the Toledo area districts involved. Collins so noted, possibly to allay any concern of school superintendents from his southeastern Ohio district who had come up to Columbus in a bus to watch the action.

"WHY DOESN'T this guy get to THE bill?" grumbled one newsman, anxious to get to his typewriter.

Suggested one of his more cynical colleagues: "He's waiting for prime time."

"Well," added a third press corpsman, "if he wants to make the 11 o'clock news with this, he'd better shake a leg." Commented someone else, of the Toledo bill: "This probably is a very good bill. Too bad he (the sponsor) got it lost in this chaos."

And then the show began.

MOTIONING representatives of the Ohio Board of Regents to the committee table, Collins gave the opening cue:

"And now we go into the most important bill in the history of Ohio."

Speaking to the audience, not the committee, he first declared the bill "would upgrade Ohio education more than ever before." But, he cautioned, the effects "may not be seen immediately."

Then, came the "actors" one at a time, at Collins' direction. First was Sen. Michael J. Maloney, R-Cincinnati. Collins identified him as chairman of the Ways and Means Committee and the "man who's going to raise the money." (Applause)

BEFORE going further, Collins promised the audience the foundation bill would be funded by Sept. 1. (Applause)

Next he introduced Sen. Oliver Ocasek, D-Akron, a committee member. Ocasek, a member of the Ohio Education Association's executive council, labeled the school bill "the best seen here in several decades."

Then came another committeeman, Sen. Tennyson Guyer, R-Findlay. "Education doesn't cost, it pays," bubbled the fluent Guyer.

Guyer then introduced the author of the "Gospel According to John" — John Hall, legislative representative of the OEA. According to Guyer, Hall — ever present when the bill was drafted — "was the one man who knew what was going on when we didn't." (Applause)

"TAKE THAT, you AFT (American Federation of Teachers) members," interjected a man standing near the front of the room.

Interrupted by applause at least six more times, the show went on. In and out of the TV lights moved Martin Essex, state superintendent of public instruction, Ohio Budget Director Howard Collier, Hall again, OEA executive secretary Staynor Brighten, the superintendent of Youngstown schools, the head of the state PTA.

Returning to the committee after slipping next door for another hearing, Sen. Ralph S. Regula, R-Navarre, was given his opportunity to speak.

CHIDED the onetime Stark County educator and a member of Maloney's subcommittee working on new tax proposals: "I hope you'll all be back when the tax bill is heard." (Applause, rather sporadic)

And so into the last hour of last Wednesday night went one of the 107th General Assembly's biggest productions.

Observed one legislator as the curtain dropped and the TV lights faded and the school teachers departed: "This was Oakley's finest hour."

How Can I?

By ANNE ASHLEY

Q.—How can I make a filler for repairing cracks in a pair of old wooden wagon wheels I wish to use in my yard as a decoration?

A.—Mix flour with enough brown shellac to make a paste. Rub on the wood, and after it has dried, sandpaper the surface and then rub with a soft cloth that has been dampened with a little oil and thin shellac.

Q.—How can I deal with crayon marks on my wallpaper?

A.—Try sponging over these lightly with a soft cloth moistened with carbon tetrachloride. You may have to repeat this operation several times for appreciable results.

Q.—How can I make a good "homemade" polish for linoleum?

A.—A mixture of equal parts of thick, boiled starch and thick, warm soapsuds makes a fine polish for linoleum. It preserves the finish of the linoleum, and makes it resistant to soil.

By IDA JEAN KAIN

It's Smart Not To Smoke

Sit in on this session. If you don't smoke, consider yourself one of the lucky ones. On the hazards of smoking, health authorities are in dead earnest. Believe the flaming danger signals.

If you smoke and wish you could quit, take heart. You are young, Ida Jean Kain you haven't smoked for too long, so you are not hooked, not yet. But if you feel you can quit any time, and lull yourself into complacency as you light up, you are deceiving yourself. With that dodge, you'll be hooked.

One young man stubbed out a cigarette and said to himself, "I'm going to fight this through sometime and it might as well be right now." He meant it. That was it. He did not tell the gang of his decision and by the time anyone noticed that he was not smoking, he had the habit licked.

IF YOU decide to quit cold, toss out the rest of the pack. If that plan doesn't work for you, you can break away gradually. Here is the way to do it. Postpone the first cigarette of the day. It is easier to forego the initial cigarette than it is succeeding cigarettes. Be alert to this fact: As soon as you have smoked your first one, you are back in the grooved-in habit pattern.

Suppose you succeed for two hours, four hours, six hours. Hurrah! The next day you can do even better. If you do not make it for long the first day, do not feel defeated. You've made progress, so take your net gain. From that hour of the day on, don't go beyond your usual smoking pace.

You are advancing toward a goal. The third day is your goal. The best way to break a habit is to form a clear mental picture of the desired end-result: You, going about usual activities, not smoking. The positive plan is to vividly picture your goal.

IS IT WORTH it to break the habit? Gene Tunney, a former heavyweight champion of the world, in addressing the youth of the nation had this to say: "To contract the tobacco habit when the growth factors of the body are exerting themselves to their maximum is to handicap oneself physically and mentally for life."

Once you have licked the habit, don't play with it again. The idea that you can smoke only at parties is a trap. Continue to see yourself triumphant.

What to substitute? Action. Physical exercise is an effective safety valve. Get in a game and play hard.

(If you wish to obtain a copy of "You Can Quit Smoking," send for booklet by that title, U. S. Government Printing Office, Washington, D.C. 20402 — Price 15 cents, not in stamps.)

Ann Landers

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann Landers: We teen-agers are getting fed to the teeth with criticism from adults. We know we are not all angels, but then there ever a society made up of nothing but perfectly behaved people?

A judge in Denver wrote some advice for teen-agers which was widely publicized. Please print it and then allow me, a teen-ager, to answer him. We teens need someone to stand up for us. We think you are one of the fairest and most effective people in America. Will you give us a break? — AVERAGE TEEN.

Dear Average: Here is the judge's advice followed by your response. The judge said: "When we hear the plaintive cry of the teen-agers, 'What can we do? Where can we go?' The answer is, 'Go Home.' Hang the screens, paint the woodwork, rake the leaves, mow the lawn, shovel the walk, wash the car, learn to cook, get a job, help the priest or minister or rabbi or the Red Cross. Do your homework, and when you are through, if you aren't too tired, read a book. Your parents do not owe you entertainment. Your city or village does not owe you recreational facilities. The world does not owe you a living. You owe the world something. You owe it your time and energy and your talents so that no one will be at war, in poverty, sick or lonely, ever again. In simple language, grow up. Quit being a cry baby. Get out of your dream world and develop a backbone instead of a wishbone. Start behaving like a man or a woman. You are supposed to be mature enough to accept some of the responsibilities your parents have carried for years. They have nursed, protected, begged, excused, tolerated and denied themselves plenty so you could have every benefit. You have no right to expect them to bow to your every whim. In heaven's name, grow up and go home."

And you, Average Teen, replied:

"Dear Judge: Millions of teen-agers ARE at home. We are hanging the screens, painting the woodwork, raking the leaves, mowing the lawn, shoveling the walk, washing the car, learning to cook, trying to get a job (but few people will hire us because 'there's a law against child labor' or we are 'inexperienced'). We ARE helping our priest, our minister and our rabbi. We ARE working with the Red Cross and as candy strippers in hundreds of hospitals. And we are doing our homework, too, because if we didn't we couldn't get into those fancy colleges out East that you parents think so highly of.

"We know our folks don't owe us recreational facilities, but when we see what some of THEM do for recreation, we feel that they are not qualified to tell us how to spend our leisure time.

"I agree that we owe the world something. And we are paying that debt. There are over half a million soldiers in Vietnam and many are teen-agers.

"We will never be able to understand why ALL teen-agers are judged by the actions of a few. And it's always the rotten few. Why don't you talk more about the kids who attend youth rallies and less about the ones who steal cars and cause riots and smoke pot and take LSD.

"We don't expect our parents to cater to our every whim. We just want them to treat us like growing adults, because in heaven's name we ARE growing up and we ARE at home.—AVERAGE TEEN"

Dear Average: I'm with you.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Burglars Select Top Radio Record Hits

SARASOTA, Fla. (AP) — Disc jockeys at Sarasota radio station WKXY were wondering Sunday if the records they play might be too popular.

Before dawn Sunday, burglars entered the station. They ignored thousands of records in the library, but took 150 discs that are on the station's current play list.

Ohio Legion Ends Session

CINCINNATI (AP) — Flags fluttered and bands played as Ohio Legionaires proudly marched through the streets here in the final feature of their 49th annual state American Legion convention.

The gala parade, one of the best in many years here, capped the three-day convention.

In one of the highlights of the convention which some 8,000 to 10,000 legionaires, their wives and others attended, Phillip McBride, 38, of suburban Cherry Grove was elected the new state commander.

He succeeds Dr. Michael J. Chakeres of London. Roger Munson of Euclid is the new 1st vice commander.

Here's An Easy Adjustment For Doors That Won't Close

By DOUGLAS TUOMEY
Of the many minor irritations to be found around the house, there is none more prevalent than the door that will not stay closed.

As a rule, this is caused by shrinkage of the door or the frame which prevents the small tongue of the lock from slipping into the striking plate. When the striking plate has two holes in it, the larger is usually the hole for the latch bolt which is operated by a key.

Usually the lock fails to connect by only a fraction of an inch. Of course you can take off the plate, chisel out a bit of wood and move the plate so that the tongue fits in properly, but there is a better and easier way to do it.

The plate should be removed after you see where the trouble is, and placed in a vise. Using a fine file, enlarge the hole slightly, just enough to insure good operation. Then replace the plate in exactly the same position. This method overcomes the difficulty without marring any of the woodwork or even requiring puttying or painting.

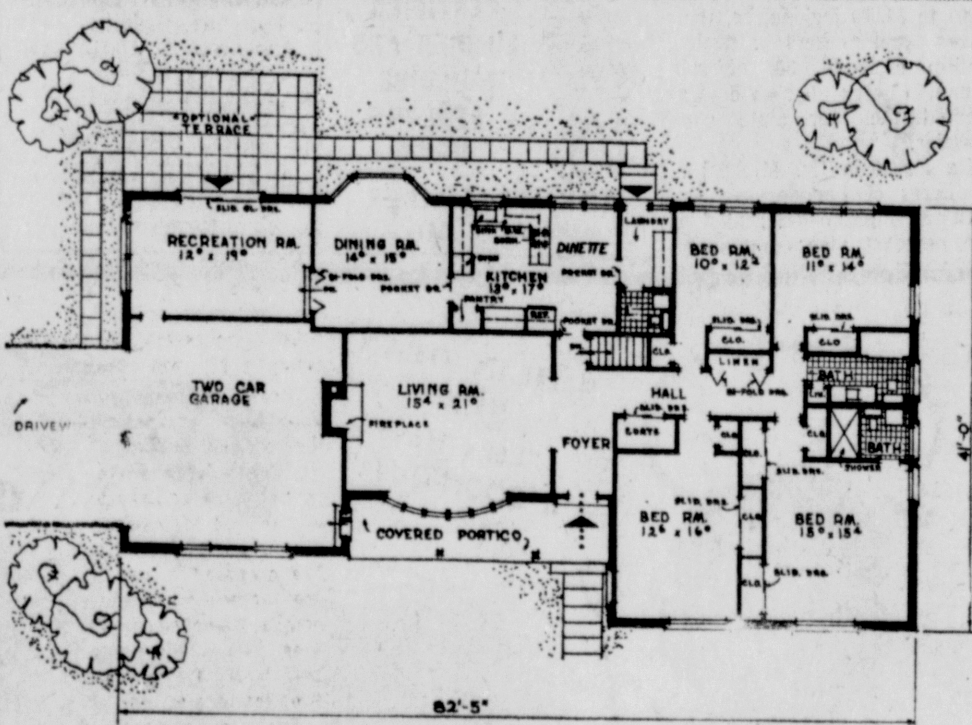

A door which fails to remain shut is a dangerous thing to have in the house. It is particularly dangerous at night when someone may walk into the edge of a half-open door.

Sometimes a slight sagging of the door, due to a loose hinge, will cause this trouble. The screws holding the door hinges should be checked and turned up tight.

Polishing-Sanding Machine Will Care For Delicate Work

By DOUGLAS TUOMEY
While everyone likes to see bright metal and shining wood surfaces on tables and other furniture, they are aware of the energy required to bring them to that condition.

Experienced people know that there is no substitute for elbow grease when a highly-polished surface is desired. As a result, few surfaces are as well groomed as they might be.

One of the most useful small pieces of equipment to appear recently is a compact combination polishing-sanding machine. Unlike most of the heavy polishing tools we are familiar with, the piece of equipment weighs a bit over a pound.

Instead of having a whirling plate on the bottom, it has a flat plate which vibrates back and forth with great rapidity and whips up a splendid, high hard polish with ordinary furniture wax.

The average dining room table may be coated lightly with wax in something like 15 or 20 seconds. The polisher produces a hard, gleaming finish in three of four minutes. This replaces the half-hour of hard rubbing usually required.

The plate is furnished with a sheepskin cover which may be taken off and washed in soap and water if it becomes too soiled. And this may be removed and replaced with a sheet of sand paper.

When this machine is used for sanding down surfaces, it produces a very unusual and smooth job. There are no distinct sandpaper marks such as are produced by a whirling disc. The rapid vibratory action takes off paint or varnish evenly and smoothly, without scratching the surface.

The plate which is the working surface of the machine is equipped with a clip at each end which opens to take and hold whatever type of sandpaper or fabric the operator wishes to use.

Another advantage of this small electric hand tool is that one can work delicately with it. There is no chance of it running away or making the gouges that whirling-disc sanders and polishers can.

Dispute Settled At Plain Dealer

CLEVELAND (AP)—A union dispute caused the Cleveland Plain Dealer to miss publication of Saturday editions, but the dispute was settled Saturday night in time for the newspaper to publish an abbreviated Sunday paper.

Local 53 of the International Typographical Union held a 22-hour chapel meeting after a union officer, Pat Locurto, was fired Friday.

The union said Locurto was fired for taking down a bulletin board notice by management. After meetings between union and company officials, the Plain Dealer said Saturday that Locurto was "reinstated without qualification, effective immediately."

The union agreed to sign a statement that the publisher had the right to post notices and issue orders in the composing room and that future disagreements will be settled through the provisions of the contract.

Throw-Away House?

It Could Be Next In Scheme Of Things

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer
It will not be long now until the innovators talk about throw-away houses.

That far-out thought was expressed by a member of the avant-garde, who surmises that such ideas are already well along in the experimental stage.

It's something to consider. Millions of paper dresses and other wearables will be run off assembly lines next year because they've proved successful.

Top furniture designers are experimenting with quality paper furniture. There is some paper furniture being imported in kooky styles and colors and cardboard tables, benches and stools are being made by one California house, who guarantees them against hundreds of pounds of stress.

A THROW-AWAY era—dresses, underwear, home furnishings—will surely make a permanent house look old-fashioned.

Imagine being confined to a little old shingled Colonial or Georgian mansion while your neighbor orders a new style house whenever the mood hits? It would challenge anyone to get into the throw-away house mood.

They tell us that paper will be so strong when they finish treating it with goodness knows what, that you'll be able to do just about anything with it.

The wasp has known this all along and has made his sturdy paper house out of wood shavings. It keeps him stinging along until he gets bored with it, but it isn't thrown away. People use wasp houses for decoration. They're ideal planters.

Ah-so. How about throw-away lawn mowers, dish washers, washing machines at throw-away prices?

That might really cause a stir. Imagine being able to discard the lawn mower, dishwasher, washing machine and standing oven, rather than have its innards serviced regularly. About the time the average person has these items paid off, kapowie, the shebang is ready to be replaced.

Add up maintenance costs and service charges to get the real cost of appliances. Results are staggering.

Throw-away items might solve the problem of trash removal.

You can light a match to that paper house, furniture and appliances when you are through with them, bury the remains and put your new house on the old foundation.

THE PAPER would be insulated and it would come in various weights, no doubt, for walls, floors, ceilings.

Your paper furniture might be put on a paper patterned floor, eliminating carpet. You throw the house away when you get tired of your paper-patterned walls.

A paper house would solve lots of problems what with its no-wash, no-paint walls, furniture and floors that would be improved by grinding your heels into them.

The avant-garde picture would give man more leisure. He could buy lots in various sections of the country, put his paper house in the climate of his choice, and when the house was ready for burning, he could move elsewhere for awhile. The plumbing, fuel and heating core could be shipped to the new destination in its miniaturized form.

American taste-makers with their proclivity for gilding the lily probably would not be content with a simple paper dwelling. Paper houses would be glamorized along with prices and we'd soon be forced out of the throw-away idea.

There is talk about "long wearing" paper clothes and machine washable paper products that will take these items out of the disposable class.

And before you know it, you are back at the starting gate with a new bag (paper) of old tricks.

Funeral Rites Slated For Ohio Judge's Wife

CHICAGO (AP)—Funeral services will be held here Wednesday for Mrs. Amy M. Parsons, a Cincinnati, Ohio, native and wife of Judge James B. Parsons, the first Negro to receive permanent appointment to a U. S. District Court judgeship.

Mrs. Parsons died Saturday in a Chicago hospital, just five days before her 57th birthday. She was the granddaughter of George Maxwell, the donor of the land which now is the campus of Wilberforce University in Ohio.

To The Finish

More Painting Tips Offered

By ANDY LANG
AP Newsfeatures

Generally, house paints are more durable than transparent finishes in the finishing of wood exposed to the weather.

But the person who wants to permit the natural grain of the wood to show, without any appreciable change in its color, has a choice between what are called surface coatings and the penetrating finishes.

The surface coatings include varnish and synthetics. The penetrating finishes include oils, sealer and water repellents.

ORDINARY varnishes, such as those used on interior woodwork, are unsatisfactory for use outside the house. The old standard, spar varnish, is still widely used, but has given way in many cases to the more expensive synthetic resins, which are said by their manufacturers to be more resistant to deterioration from the elements.

Whichever type is used, the removal of dirt, wax and grease from previously finished surfaces is essential to a good result. And since there are so many different kinds of synthetic finishes with different bases, it is important that the manufacturer's directions be followed to the letter.

While most of the varnishes and synthetics produce glossy finishes, the penetrating materials soak into the wood and leave no gloss. Sometimes, during application of a penetrating finish, some of the liquid is left on the surface after the pores of the wood have been filled. It is important that this excess be wiped off immediately. A good practice is to go through the wiping process in any case — just to make sure.

For a real dull finish, boiled linseed oil, to which a little paint drier is added, is highly effective. Here, too, it is vital that any excess be wiped off quickly. The wipe-off is not as necessary with water-repellent finishes, which have an exceptionally high degree of penetration.

WHERE SOME color other than the natural shade of the wood is preferred — and yet retention of the grain is desired — there are various kinds of stains and pigmented finishes from which to choose.

There is even one in which the pigment is gray to give the appearance of weathered wood.

In areas subject to mildew, it is advisable to apply a coat of water repellent, followed by two coats of the selected natural finish. An alternative is to mix a fungicide with the natural finish.

Some house designs call for the use of uncoated exterior woodwork, which is allowed to weather naturally. In such cases, of course, it is important that the wood be of the kind which weathers without excessive cupping, twisting and checking, such as good quality cedar and redwood.

Steel Awaits Market Spur

CLEVELAND (AP) — Steel production in the United States hit a summer low last week, but Steel Magazine noted that a "slow but sure move toward an increase in steel use and demand is shaping up."

Output of raw steel dropped to 2,130,000 net tons last week, the "lowest weekly rate since the first week of December, 1965," Steel said.

"One steel melter using electric furnaces has shut them down for three weeks of vacation."

But the trade publication said signs of increased demand are evident from the rate of bookings at various mills.

"For example, in the Midwest, several mills report the second consecutive week of increased orders, mainly for sheets and bars." One firm in this area is reactivating a 44 inch hot strip mill that has been idle 11 weeks, Steel said.

Orders placed now are generally for August delivery, the earliest mills can manufacture the material, it was reported.

"Underlying the rather lackadaisical demand for steel for civilian uses is a slowly but surely growing requirement for military purposes," Steel said. "One estimate has it that 4 to 5 per cent of U.S. steel output is for military needs."

Demand for scrap remains unusually slow, Steel reported. The magazine's price composite on top grade steelmaking scrap remained unchanged for the third straight week at $26.83 a gross ton.

Ohio Father Held In Death Of His Retarded Son, 7

CLEVELAND (AP) — A 49-year-old Lakewood man was being held today without charge by Lakewood police for questioning in the death of his crippled and mentally retarded son.

The body of 7-year-old James Heffernan was found early Sunday in the back seat of his father's car by police who were summoned to the Heffernan home by the father, Charles J. Heffernan.

Police said Heffernan told them the boy died Tuesday after striking his head on a seat belt anchor in the car while Heffernan was away from the car. He said he did not report the death earlier because he panicked and explained that he had driven around with the boy's body in the car until Sunday.

A preliminary autopsy by the Cuyahoga County Coroner's Office showed no signs of physical injury to the boy and the possibility of death from a brain disease was being investigated. There was no official ruling on the cause of death.

Your Hose Leak? Remedies Given

AP Newsfeatures
Question: Our garden hose has developed two leaks in widely-separated parts of the hose. Can we use ordinary adhesive to make repairs?

ANSWER: If there is a tiny crack in a rubber hose, it can be repaired with a generous coating of rubber-based cement.

Before applying, be sure the opening is thoroughly dry. And after the first coat has set for 10 or 15 minutes, apply a second coat. Wind rubber, friction or plastic electrical tape around the area and put the hose aside for at least 12 and preferably 24 hours before using.

However, if the opening is more than a hairline crack, it usually is better to purchase a metal splicer or mending tube with pipe clamps, being certain (1) you tell the dealer you want it for a rubber hose and (2) you ask his advice on how to use it, since there is a slight variation between different types on the market.

In using either of these devices, you will find that you have to cut away the damaged portion of the hose with a sharp knife.

The precaution about telling the dealer the kind of hose to be repaired is necessary because there is a difference between the splicers used on rubber and those used on plastic.

One factor must be taken into consideration before you attempt to repair a hose of any kind. If the hose is very old, it is possible that other defects may develop in a short time. Thus, you may be better off to purchase a new hose.

Plans Salvaged Home

BOSTON (AP)—A Scituate, Mass., antique dealer has raised a 60-year-old Chesapeake Bay oyster dragger from Boston harbor and plans to make it into a house. Janos Laszlo paid $50 for the right to salvage the vessel, the Bugeye, which sank six months ago.

Off-Season 'Screen Play'

A good privacy screen can be many things, depending on what's needed for a specific situation. Frequently it means a tall, fairly solid fence. But sometimes only a simple baffle will do a big job.

For instance, there's often a problem where garage and driveway join the back yard. The gap between is usually small — yet big enough to open the yard to view from the driveway, sometimes even to the street if the angle is just right.

This is the place to put a free-standing baffle. When designed properly and placed just so, it works as effectively as the tallest, toughest fence. The baffle, however, will look light and informal — more decorative than functional. Especially is this true when it's used also as a support for a vine or an espaliered shrub or tree.

ANY ONE OF several patterns is good for a baffle. Vertical louvers always work well since they can be angled to block a view while leaving an open feeling.

Generally, a baffle needs to be six feet high or more to do the best screening job. Its width depends on the space to be filled. A walk-through area must be left, but the rest of the space should be covered, at least visually.

Setting it on a diagonal line to the driveway's edge is often good, since an angled screen can block a greater area than its actual width. Angling it also can provide a wider passageway without loss of privacy.

Building a free-standing baffle is much like building a fence. Posts, usually western red cedar 4-by-4's, are the main supports. They should be set on poured concrete footings, with the post butts held a bit above the footings by strap irons. The strap irons are imbedded in the concrete, although the post is not. That technique avoids any prolonged contact of wood with moisture.

RAILS FOR the baffles should be 2-by-4's toe-nailed between the posts. The louvers are 1-by-6-inch boards set at a 45-degree angle between rails. Exact space of the louver boards is easiest to achieve with spacer blocks or with grooves cut into the rails.

When the baffle is to be 10 feet wide or more, it looks best divided into two sections of equal width, with one stepped a foot lower than the other. The effect is softer since a straight line at the top is broken.

It's good, also, to build the louvered section to a 5 or 6-foot height, then to add a one-foot-high crown on top using an open pattern of widely spaced 2x2s. Despite overall height of the baffle, the crown tends to make the screen appear more airy and open.

Again to keep the touch as natural as possible, use rough cedar for posts, rails and louver boards. The rough cedar has the advantage of weathering well, too, requiring virtually no upkeep if installed unfinished or if finished with a light-colored exterior stain. Driftwood gray and sand-gold are good shades.

'Extras' Should Be Included In Contract On Sale Of Home

By ANDY LANG
AP Newsfeatures

When you buy a new house, you know exactly what is included in the selling price and what is considered "extra."

But you can never be sure when you purchase an old house — no matter what the real estate broker or the owner says at the time you are inspecting the home.

Many a closing transaction has gone awry or, at the very least, been delayed because of a last-minute difference of opinion about just what the new owner is to get for his money.

It is vital, therefore, that this matter be settled — most definitely in writing — when the down payment is made and the contract is signed.

Too often a purchaser signs a standard contract that includes or excludes certain items found in all houses, but make no mention of special things in the particular home being sold. Signing such a contract is an invitation to future trouble.

The subject comes to mind because of a recent incident in which a real estate salesman extolled the virtues of a redwood shed in the yard, pointing out that it was used for storing fireplace logs and garden equipment.

But when the contract was drawn up, it made no mention of the shed as either included or excluded in the sale. The home owner insisted that he intended to dismantle the shed, since he had promised it to a relative. The purchaser said he didn't consider the shed vital to the transaction, but that he felt it was part of the house and resented it being used as a selling point only to find that it would be taken away.

Both sides stuck to their positions, with the sale, at this writing, still blocked because of the dispute.

This is but a small illustration of the necessity of seeing that every possible item is included in the contract, not just the ordinary things printed in the contract.

Is the owner leaving the rugs or the wall-to-wall carpeting? Is he taking down the curtain rods? What about the refrigerator and the washing machine? Are the garden tools being left behind?

Is that beautiful fixture in the dining room to stay or does the owner intend to replace it with an ordinary fixture before he moves out? Will the new owner discover, when he takes over, that the cute little bar in the family room has disappeared?

With a new house, a builder often will include in the model certain things which are optional.

But such items are either marked clearly or stated in the brochure or both. Even so, if you are struck by a particular feature about which you have any doubt, be sure to ask about it and then doublecheck to be certain it is in the contract.

More Support Needed For Housing The Poor

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP)—Richard W. O'Neill, a member of the President's Commission on Urban Problems says public housing could be vastly improved with stronger political backing.

"We don't have any trouble getting $2 billion for a plane that can't land in any airport in the United States, and we could house all the poor in decent homes if we had political sanction," he says.

Antilles is another name for the West Indies.

Sliding Windows Will Not Leak If Fitted Properly

By DOUGLAS TUOMEY

The two-pane, sliding aluminum window is a common sight in many modern houses.

Many owners complain that they leak during driving rain storms. As a matter of fact, this type of window is excellent and does not leak when properly installed. The cause of the damage to wallpaper and ceilings is that the owner has failed to properly inspect the windows and see that the small ports or weep holes are open as they should be.

The two panes of glass which form the sliding sash operate by running in tracks or rails in the frame. Rain or melted snow could accumulate in these tracks and flow over the top of the inside track and down to the window sill and wallpaper or paint on the wall below.

The manufacturers of this type of window make allowance for this by boring small holes or slots through the outer track wall. These allow the water to drain out, when they are free.

In many instances these small holes become clogged up with careless painting, small pieces of putty or caulking, and even accumulation of wind-borne leaves, stems and dust. When this occurs, the water will build up in the outer track, seep beneath the glass frames and fill the inside track to overflowing.

Another cause is condensation. When this occurs, the beads of water run down the glass and flow over the top of the inner track, with which it is in close contact, and form pools on the sill. The same thing happens with the ordinary window when condensation is present.

Questions Are Varied In Taking Over 'Space'

By ANDY LANG
AP Newsfeatures

The conversion of an expansion attic or other unfinished space into a livable area involves more than just the necessary work and money.

Whether you do it yourself or have a contractor handle it, the transformation must be preceded by a multitude of decisions.

How do you want the available space divided? What kind of floor do you want? Will built-in furniture be desirable? Should the walls be of plywood or gypsum board or 16-inch wood panels or hardboard? Do you plan on applying finishing materials and, if so, what kind? Should you spend more and get prefinished sheets or planks? What about the ceiling — how high and what kind?

How many closets and where they should be? Is an extra bathroom needed? Is more insulation necessary? And is there enough light and ventilation?

These and many other questions must be answered before the work is begun.

If the project is under the direction of a contractor, he can advise you, dependent to some degree on how much money you are prepared to pay for preferred materials and other — than ordinary — construction procedures. If you are doing it yourself, your lumber or building supplies dealer can help you.

But in either case, you should make your own decision, based on a preliminary estimate of the situation and a pencil and paper.

The only way you can make an intelligent decision is by observing, asking questions and reading anything you can find on the subject.

Look over similar finished rooms in the homes of your friends and relatives. Ask them what they have learned by experience and what they recommend on the basis of that experience. Visit commercial displays where such rooms can be seen. Find out the differences in the cost of unfinished and prefinished wall materials.

As for that pencil and paper, or notebook and pen, carry them with you at all times. If you don't, you'll forget what so-and-so told you about such-and-such, and where you saw that beautifully grained wood, and what that nice man in the lumber yard advised you.

The one sure way to remember what you saw and where you saw it and how much it cost is to write down the information on the spot. Later, you'll have all the facts at your fingertips when you begin to make an analysis of what would fit in with your plans and whether you can afford it.

LeMay talked to about 30 persons interested in the LeMay-for-President movement, headquartered in Mount Vernon, Ohio. He was in Omaha for what he described as a brief business visit.

White Sox Win Pair To Stay 1/2-Game Ahead Of Boston

Bosox Take Two; Angels Win Again

By MIKE RECHT Associated Press Sports Writer

The Boston Red Sox realized last week they are for real, but it took the Chicago White Sox another week to get the idea—just in time to save their shaky hold on first place in the American League.

The White Sox, who had lost four of their last five games, swept a doubleheader from Kansas City, 8-4 and 1-0, Sunday and retained their half game lead over Boston, and Eddie Stanky appreciated the effort by his players.

"They knew we had to win both games to keep the lead," said the Chicago manager. "We've been on top since June 11 and I know they will come through."

But the 6,000 people who swarmed the runways at the Boston airport and greeted the Red Sox shouting "We're No. 1" Sunday night had other ideas. So do the Red Sox after sweeping Cleveland 8-5 and 5-1.

California, also hot after the White Sox, racked up its sixth straight triumph and 33rd in 45 games by nudging Minnesota 2-1 for the third consecutive day.

In other games, Detroit split a twinbill with the New York Yankees, winning 7-3 after losing 4-2, and Baltimore beat Washington 7-3 in 11 innings.

It was only 10 days ago that surprising Boston rested in fifth place, six games behind Chicago and undoubtedly happy to be that well off.

Then the Red Sox finished a home stand last Monday with their fourth straight victory and Sunday the string rose to 10 straight. Now the sky is the limit.

"When we come into a game now," said reliever Dan Osinski, "we know we're going to win. The only question is by how much."

Boston wasted little time Sunday as Tony Conigliaro cracked a two-run homer in the first inning. Joe Foy followed with a grand slam in the second and Carl Yastrzemski hit his 24th of the season in the fifth.

Reggie Smith singled in a run and then stole home on a double steal for a 2-1 lead in the nightcap and Conigliaro wrapped it up with another two-run homer, his 17th, in the fifth.

Jim Lonborg, 14-3, scattered seven hits in the first game to become the top winner in the majors and Gary Bell stopped the Indians on five safeties in the second game.

Gary Peters, 12-5, and Hoyt Wilhelm kept the White Sox ahead with a combined six-hit shutout in their nightcap as they outdueled Jim Nash.

Nash allowed only three hits, but two of them came in the second inning when Jim King doubled and Ron Hansen singled him home.

Joe Horlen, 12-3, won the first game with help from Bob Locker after the Sox built a 5-0 lead in three innings with the aid of Tommie Agee's two-run homer.

California, another second division pick like Boston at the start of the season, replenished its soaring hopes as Jack Hamilton held the Twins hitless until the seventh inning when Minnie Rojas entered to save the victory.

Jose Cardenal singled in a second inning run, stole second, took third on a wild pitch and then stole home for the needed runs off Dean Chance as the Twins lost their sixth in a row and the third-place Angels fell only two games behind Chicago.

Detroit broke a tie with Minnesota for fourth place and stood only three games back after Jim Landis and Willie Horton belted homers and reliever John Hiller drove in two runs with his first major league hit in the nightcap.

Joe Pepitone slammed four hits, including a two-run homer, to give the Yankees the first game.

Baltimore broke a five-game losing streak on Russy Snyder's two-run single and a two-run sacrifice fly by Brooks Robinson in the 11th inning. Dick Nen of Washington and Boog Powell of the Orioles had exchanged three-run homers earlier.

BOTH DON JANUARY (left) and Don Massengale have a hand on the PGA trophy after they tied Sunday sending the tournament into an 18-hole playoff today at Denver, Colo. Both held first place with scores of 7-under-par 281. (UPI Telephoto)

After Tying With 281's January And Massengale Dueling In PGA Playoff

BY BOB MYERS DENVER, Colo. (AP) — It was an all-Texas extra act finale today as Don January and Don Massengale squared off in an 18-hole playoff for the rich PGA Golf Championship.

A 12 o'clock noon tee off time was set. Play will be televised via ABC starting at 3 p.m. MDT (5 p.m., EDT).

The 37-year-old January, a fixture on the tournament trail, and Massengale, who learned to play golf on the sand greens of his native Jacksboro, Tex., finished in a tie at 281, seven strokes under par for the regular 72 holes.

The setting was the Columbine Country Club, 7,436 yards with par 36-36-72. Massengale, who finished before January, shot a 66 and January 68.

It was a Sunday jammed with surprises, upsets and a constantly changing picture. When it was all over, and the two tall Texans emerged to play it off for the $25,000 and $15,000 awaiting the winner and runner-up, U.S. Open champion Jack Nicklaus, with a last round 71, and Dan Sikes, 73, were tied at 282.

Defending champion Al Geiberger, 70, and Julius Boro, 68, were tied at 283, while mired at 287, after a disappointing 74, was Arnold Palmer.

Neither January, born in Plainview, Tex., but now from Dallas, nor Massengale had figured prominently all week. Sikes went into the final round with a lead of six strokes over Massengale and four over January. Nicklaus and Tommy Aaron were only two shots back of Sikes.

Wins 2 Of 3 Games

Post 374 Remains Alive In District Legion Play

East Liverpool Post 374 remained in contention in the District Legion tournament at Rittman after winning two games and losing one in the double eliminated play this past week-end.

While Massillon and Doylestown were eliminated, East Liverpool, Steubenville and Cadiz remain in the tournament with two victories and one defeat each.

POST 374 defeated Massillon 7-0 Saturday, came back to outlast Cadiz, 12-9 in the first game Sunday but dropped a 12-10 loss to Steubenville in the second game Sunday.

Next Saturday at 10:30 a.m. Post 374 will meet Cadiz with the winner playing Steubenville for the Tenth District championship. The winner will advance to Athens for the state tournament.

In Post 374's 7-0 victory over Massillon Jeff Hall pitched a neat two hitter striking out 11 batters.

THE EAST Liverpool nine staked Hall to a 4-0 lead in the first inning with John Stoddard's triple the big blow. Ed Golden paced the hitting attack with three safeties including a double while Rex Campbell, Emery Brewer and Hall had two hits each.

Post 374 scored a single run in the second inning and two more in the eighth.

In Sunday's game with Cadiz, Post 374 broke an 8-8 tie with a run in the seventh inning but Cadiz tied the game with a run in the eighth.

POST 374 went in front for good with a three-run eighth inning.

Catcher Rex Campbell had a big day with six RBI's with three coming on a three-run homer in the first inning when Post 374 scored five runs.

The winners pounded out 14 hits including a home run by Mike McVay and three hits by Mike Caruso.

HALL was declared the winning pitcher again coming on in the seventh inning and struck out eight batters in three frames. McVay finished the game on the mound striking out two of three batters that he faced.

Steubenville finally stopped Post 374 by breaking up a 9-9 tie with three runs in the last of the sixth.

Both teams had 12 hits as McVay started on the mound but was relieved by Caruso in the third inning. Steubenville's big inning was the third when six runs crossed the plate.

Rex Campbell continued his hitting with a home run while Mike Goodballet drove in three runs. Taylor was the winning hurler for Steubenville.

Cards Sweep Braves To Retain Lead In National League

Pittsburgh, Cubs Split Twinbills

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer

The St. Louis Cardinals got just one twin killing from two double play combinations...but Red Schoendienst couldn't have asked for more.

Manager Scoerendienst platooned the second base-shortstop positions in Sunday's doubleheader against Atlanta and neither the Julian Javier-Ed Bressoud team nor the Phil Gagliano-Dal Maxville tandem could turn over a double play.

But all four infielders played key roles in a 3-1, 7-3 sweep that carried the Cardinals back into sole possession of the National League lead.

Javier's fifth inning homer, after a walk to Bressoud, decided the opener and Maxville's seventh inning single delivered the go-ahead run in the nightcap after Gagliano homered in the fifth for a 3-3 tie.

The double victory sent St. Louis one game ahead of the Chicago Cubs, who dropped their doubleheader opener to San Francisco 5-2 before rebounding for a 6-3 victory over the Giants.

Pittsburgh split a pair with Houston, bombing the Astros 15-2 after an 8-5 first game loss; Cincinnati nipped Philadelphia 2-1 and the New York Mets trimmed Los Angeles 4-1 in other games.

Javier's two-run homer gave left-hander Steve Carlton a 3-0 lead in the opener at St. Louis but he needed relief help from Rob Willis in the eighth after Felipe Alou homered.

Alou led off the nightcap with another homer and right-hander Ed Rakow retired the Cards in order until the fifth while nursing a 3-0 lead. Then Tim McCann drew a walk, Mike Shannon blasted a two-run homer and Gagliano followed with his second homer of the season, tying the score.

Maxville broke the deadlock in the seventh with his hit to left after a single by Shannon and Gagliano's sacrifice bunt. Willis, who hurled two more shut-out innings for his second save of the day, doubled across two runs as the Cards wrapped it up with a four-run eighth inning burst.

The Cardinals' abrupt recovery from a 3-6 slump in their previous nine starts kept them a jump ahead of the amazing Cubs, who invade St. Louis tonight for the opener of a pivotal three-game series.

Two-run homers by Ron Santo and Ernie Banks earned the Cubs a split after veteran Mike McCormick checked them on six hits in the opener and Jim Hart crashed a pair of homers for the Giants.

Joe Niekro was the second game winner with relief help from Bill Hands and Chuck Hartenstein. Hart clubbed his third homer of the day in the fifth after the Cubs had built a 6-0 lead.

McCormick rolled to his 13th victory in 17 decisions, blanking the Cubs on three hits until the ninth, when Randy Hundley's homer ended the shutout bid.

Jim Wynn slammed his 24th and 25th homers, setting a Houston season record and helping Dave Giusti beat the Pirates in the opener at Pittsburgh. In the nightcap, however, Roberto Clemente, Bill Mazeroski and Donn Clendenon all homered as the Pirates backed right-hander Tommie Sisk with an 18-hit assault.

Milt Pappas and Ted Abernathy collaborated on a two-hitter for Cincinnati, while Lee May's run-scoring double and Chico Ruiz' RBI single in the seventh inning erased a 1-0 deficit. Bill White's second inning single—the only Philadelphia hit until the eighth—sent Tony Gonzalez, who had walked, to third and he scored on a double play grounder.

The Mets salvaged the final game of a three-game set with Los Angeles as Bob Hendley fired a four-hitter, Tommy Davis drilled the 100th homer of his career and Bud Harrelson scored the deciding run on Dick Schofield's fifth inning throwing error.

Won Opener Sunday

EL Pony All-Stars Are Eliminated By Bellaire Following 6-4 Defeat

The East Liverpool Pony League All-Stars were eliminated from the Area Pony Tournament when Bellaire - Shadyside scored a 6-4 victory in the third and deciding game Sunday at Bellaire.

The Bellaire - Shadyside combine had won the opener 4-1 Saturday at Beaver Local Field but East Liverpool came back in the first game Sunday at Bellaire to post a 7-2 victory sending the series into a third game.

In Saturday's game, Bellaire's Burgie blanked East Liverpool for six innings before giving up a run in the seventh inning. Bellaire had scored single runs in the first and fourth frames and two in the seventh.

JIM MOORE was the losing pitcher giving up two hits but two of those were home runs by Burgie and Thomas.

East Liverpool left eight runners stranded in the opening game. John Lockhart paced the locals with two hits including a double.

MANAGER Dean Densmore's nine bounced back to win the first game Sunday. After taking a 3-0 lead, Bellaire posted two runs in the fourth but East Liverpool insured the victory with a pair of runs in the fifth and two in the seventh.

East Liverpool unleashed a hard hitting attack that netted 11 hits as Randy McVay went the distance and gave up only five hits while fanning 12 batters.

CENTERFIELDER Rick Welsh, who did not play in Saturday's game because of an ankle injury, and Bob Deem paced East Liverpool's attack with three hits each as both smacked a double and two singles. Deem drove in three runs for the contest.

Deem knocked in East Liverpool's two runs in the third inning with a double then hit a two-out single to drive in one of the two runs in the seventh inning.

In the third and deciding game Sunday, East Liverpool jumped out in front with two runs in the first inning.

JOHN LOCKHART gained first base on an error and Rick

Welsh tripled him home then Welsh scored on a ground ball hit by Randy McVay.

East Liverpool scored single runs in the second and third innings but were blanked through the final four innings.

Bellaire came on to score single runs in the first three innings. Trailing 4-3 going into the sixth inning, Bellaire scored three runs in the last of the sixth to decide the game when the pitcher Thorburn hit a bloop single over third base that drove in runners from second and third.

In the seventh inning, a double play on a hard hit drive by John Lockhart killed East Liverpool's last hope.

Whittaker was charged with the loss in the final game as he gave up seven hits. East Liverpool was limited to four hits by Thorburn with Welsh collecting a triple and single.

Cunningham Goes 3-For-3

Chambers Hurls Colt No-Hitter

A no-hitter by Tom Chambers stole the show in the Colt League action over the weekend as the Riverview Florists moved into first place.

Chambers turned in his outstanding mound achievement against Maxim's at Salem as Riverview scored a 12-0 victory. Chambers struck out six batters and was given solid backing by his teammates in the field and at bat.

Riverview collected 15 hits and scored in every inning but the seventh.

Chambers' no-hitter helped the Florists to a sweep of a doubleheader with Riverview winning the second game, 12-1.

In the no-hit contest, Bill Montgomery belted a home run but Riverview's Dan Cunningham had quite a day collecting four - for - four in both games, including two doubles for a perfect eighth-for-eight performance. Burton had three hits in the no-hit game.

In the second game, Jim Massey was the winning pitcher as he limited Maxim's to four hits. Riverview again came up with 15 hits giving the Florists 30 hits for the day.

Montgomery and Bob Flint had three hits apiece.

Seiferth's won two games over the weekend defeating Maxim's 6-3 on Saturday and scoring a 16-5 victory over Central Service Sunday.

Bernie Lovejoy was the winning pitcher as Seiferth's and Maxim's came up with eight hits each. A triple by James was the big blow for Seiferth's while Smith and Altomare had two hits each for the losers.

Seiferth's broke a 3-3 tie with two runs in the fourth inning plus another run in the fifth. Seiferth's had 13 hits including a pair of doubles by Dan Myers in the victory over Central Service.

After a 3-3 tie in the second inning, Seiferth's scored 13 runs in the last four innings to run away with the contest.

Klembara, Myers, Lovejoy and Petkovich had two hits apiece for the winners.

Myers was the winning pitcher with Sam Doughty the loser. Clutter and Blankenship had two hits for Central.

Junior Editors Quiz on PILLARS

QUESTION: Why were there so many pillars used on ancient buildings?

ANSWER: When large buildings were first constructed by ancient peoples, it was natural that strong posts should have been used to help hold them up. Since gravity pulls straight downward, an upright post can carry a tremendous weight. But as buildings grew bigger, posts, pillars or columns took on a new meaning. When we see giant trees, like the sequoias at left above, they give us a feeling of awe and majesty. The ancients used their big buildings to impress people with the majesty of their rulers of the various gods they worshipped. They found the columns an excellent way to express this majesty. Consequently, we have the huge columns of the temple at Karnak in Egypt and the single figure of a Roman emperor perched on the top of an enormous column. The most beautiful columns were those belonging to Greek temples. We show three types of capitals used by the Greeks, the Doric (1), Ionic (2) and Corinthian (3).

Bill Hatfield of Elkhart, Ind., wins today's combined prize of Compton's Illustrated Science Dictionary plus $10 cash for this question. Mail yours on a postcard to Junior Editors in care of The Review.

jected French President De Gaulle's call for an international conference to neutralize Indochina. Johnson said previous agreement should be honored.

Ten years ago—Sidney S. Baron resigned his post as publicist for Tammany Hall, the New York County Democratic organization, after he was hired by the Dominican government to prepare a campaign for improving Dominican-American relations.

Five years ago—Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko defended at the 17-nation Geneva Conference the Soviet decision to resume its nuclear tests.

One year ago—The six European Common Market countries agreed on a system of uniform prices for agricultural products within the economic bloc.

Today In History

By The Associated Press

Today is Monday, July 24, the 205th day of 1967. There are 160 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1679, New Hampshire became a royal colony of the British crown.

On this date: In 1847, Brigham Young and his Mormon followers arrived at Great Salt Lake Valley, Utah.

In 1866, Tennessee became the first seceding state to be readmitted into the Union following the end of the war between the states.

In 1948, Henry A. Wallace and Sen. Glen H. Taylor of Idaho were nominated for president and vice president by delegates to the national convention of the Progressive party in Philadelphia.

In 1959, Vice President Nixon and Soviet Premier Khrushchev, at the opening of the American exhibition in Moscow, conducted a running debate on the pros and cons of capitalism and communism.

In 1964, President Johnson re-

Hints from Heloise

— By Heloise Cruse —

DEAR HELOISE: The dishes we take from the table are always well rinsed and put into the dishwasher for storage until a full load is collected.

Sometimes we have difficulty in distinguishing between clean and dirty dishes when we hurriedly need to use a certain dish or plate from the machine.

My husband came up with this very good idea that has saved tempers in our household:

He took a small, square magnet and painted the side (with the least pull) white to match the front of the dishwasher. Then with red nail polish painted a "C" on one end of the magnet and a "D" on the other (for clean and dirty) and stuck it on the washer near the dial.

I simply turn the "C" up whenever I turn the dial to wash. Then when I unload the clean dishes later, I turn the magnet around to "D" and start putting in the dirty dishes which I won't be taking out by mistake!

Now, without so much as opening the door, everyone can tell at a glance if the dishes are ready to use.

AN AVID FAN.

Thank your sweet husband for this clever hint. What would we do without them?

To avoid the trouble of painting the magnets, I bought a red one and a green one. When the dishes are dirty, I stick the red one on the front of the dishwasher. . . STOP! When they are clean, I switch to the GO. . . GREEN!

LOVE, HELOISE.

DEAR HELOISE: Don't throw away those old decorative pillows.

They make comfortable seats for children.

Just cover them with plastic or vinyl and see how they enjoy them at camp, in the yard or at the pool.

Mrs. T. Holt.

DEAR HELOISE: My little daughter has thick, waist-length hair that is very difficult to wash.

Like many mothers, I partly solved this problem by using the kitchen sink with the spray attachment.

She always lies across the drainboard with the back of her head suspended over the sink which is very uncomfortable and her back gets wet.

I found a large sponge I had saved for washing the car that gave me an idea.

I slipped this under her neck at the edge of the sink and it worked great.

It also absorbed the water and her back and neck kept perfectly dry.

Now she just loves her kitchen sink shampoo.

JUANITA BROWN.

DEAR HELOISE: Here is a space saving idea for those empty, bulky detergent and cereal boxes that take up so much room in your wastebasket.

Just run hot water in them and let them sit awhile to soften the cardboard. Then fold them up flat and throw in your trash basket.

Sure takes up less space that way.

MRS. C. NEWELL.

DEAR HELOISE: Recently we had house guests for about a week and I was unable to read the newspapers with any degree of schedule or regularity.

In order to be sure the sections I read didn't get mixed up, as I read each one I cut or tore the top right-hand corner of the front page.

Then I had no trouble knowing which sections I had not seen.

DELORA.

Heloise welcomes all mail, especially household hints which she can pass on to readers as space permits. However, because of the tremendous volume of mail she receives daily, Heloise is unable to answer all individual letters. She will answer readers' questions in her column whenever possible.
